Young W. J. C. Director Dies, Was Ex-Chaplain

Dr. Robert S. Marcus, forty-one, of 229 West Ninety-seventh Street, political director of the World Jewish Congress, a veteran of World War II, and a champion of the displaced persons of Europe, died at Flower Hospital, in New York, after a short illness. Dr. Marcus, who formerly was leader of the Concourse Center of Israel, at 2323 Grand Concourse, the Bronx, served as chaplain in the Army for more than three years in World War II with the rank of captain. For twenty months he served overseas as chaplain with the 9th Tactical Air Force.

While serving in Europe, Capt. Marcus's sympathies were aroused by the plight of the displaced persons, the victims of the German concentration camps and the homeless orphans. In June, 1945, he arrived in Paris with 110 youthful war waifs whom he had picked up and sought to turn over to a Jewish welfare organization there. French officialdom intervened and despite the valiant efforts of the exhausted chaplain, his charges were taken over by a government agency, says the New York Herald Tribune.

Born in Jersey City, he was graduated from the College of the City of New York, and was ordained a rabbi after graduation from Yeshiva University. He also studied at the New York University School of Law, receiving a degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence. As a rabbi he led congregations in Newburgh, N. Y., and Cedarhurst, L. I.

Dr. Marcus began his activities for the American Jewish Congress in 1936, and was secretary of the Joint Anti-Nazi Boycott Committee. After the war Dr. Marcus rejoined the American Jewish Committee as director of the Department of World Jewish Affairs, and in 1948 was named political director of the World Jewish Congress.

March 1 Is Iraqi Date For Exodus Of Jews

The Israeli Government and the World Zionist Organization are under pressure to speed up "Operation Ali Baba" for the transfer of Iraqi Jews to Israel. Pressure came from Baghdad, where a bomb explosion in a synagogue serving as clearing house in the operation killed four Jews and wounded scores early last week. The outrage was followed by an Iraqi Government proclamation that permission for Jewish citizens to register for emigration was being suspended March 1.

The new edict means that the 60,000 Jews who have applied to leave Iraq and are awaiting transportation to Israel as well as thousands more who may register before the deadline may be in a dangerous position March 1. Under the Parliamentary act passed last March, they lost Iraqi nationality when they applied for emigration. There is deep concern in Israel about their future in the light of a suggestion in the Baghdad Parliament that stateless Jews be interned in concentration camps, according to the New York Times.

The present quota for immigration from Iraq is 4,000 monthly. At this rate it would take years before the transfer to Israel was completed. The Zionists have been unable to move the Iraqis faster because priority has been given to immigration from the East European countries.

Furthermore the Iraqis are being moved by air via Cyprus in chartered United States planes and this is a big drain on limited Zionist funds.

Baptist Mission Farm In Israel To Use Hebrew

A Baptist missionary agricultural settlement, combining features of the collective and cooperative farms common in the Zionist development of the Holy Land, is being promoted in Israel, at Tel Aviv.

A nucleus was started in 1946 by three Russian Baptist families who came to Palestine as political refugees after the Russian Revolution. They are working eighteen acres of irrigated land acquired by the Baptist Mission near Petah Tikvah in the Sharon Plain, as well as twenty acres of unirrigated abandoned Arab land leased to them by the Israel Government.

The Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention in Richmond, Va., is studying a plan to expand the settlement to make homes for thirty families of converts and prospective converts from Judaism and Islam. Funds for the acquisition of more land have not been appropriated, but a missionary couple who are experts in agriculture, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Francis, have been sent to Israel from Richmond for three years.

The promoter of the plan is the Rev. Robert L. Lindsey, of Norman, Okla., pastor of the Baptist Congregation in Jerusalem. He feels that Jewish, Moslem, and Druze converts have little freedom to live openly as Christians in their old communities. Sometimes, he says, they are subjected to financial duress. He envisages the agricultural settlement as a retreat where converts can earn a living and find Christian fellowship, reports the New York Times.

Mr. Lindsey plans to move with his family to the agricultural settlement, and to establish a church and a Bible school there. He stresses that he does not envisage the settlement as a foreign group in Israel. Hebrew would be the language of the settlement and every attempt would be made to normalize life within the national culture.

The settlers would divide labor and share profits, and cooperative buying and selling organizations would be set up. Families would get their own homes, while the unmarried would form a cooperative unit. The pastor believes that the settlement would be an attraction to some penniless Jewish refugees and for disinherited Arab refugees who return to Israel.

Urges Aid By Private U.S. Capital

Israel must receive substantial American private investment aid if it is to remain a democratic bastion in the Middle East, speakers asserted in New York at an "economic seminar and conference" arranged by the Zionist Organization of America.

The conference, in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, was called to accelerate private investments in Israel. The speakers included Edward L. Echtman, general manager of the Manufacturers' Association of Israel; Dr. Joachim O. Ronnall, Israeli vice consul in New York; Nathan Straus 3d, a director of the Palestine Economic Corporation; and Isadore I. Turnover, national chairman of the Zionists' economic committee. Harry Cohen, president of the Bronx Zionist Region, presided.

A message from Benjamin G. Browdy, Zionists' president, reminded the business men and industrialists at the meeting that promoting private investment in Israel was an integral part of the $1,500,000,000 program adopted at the conference of American Jewish leaders in Jerusalem last September. The program was ratified by the National Planning Conference for Israel and Jewish Rehabilitation in Washington last October.

Mr. Browdy said that private investment would play an important part in the three-year program of the Israel Government to absorb 600,000 Jews and to increase the country's agricultural and industrial potential.

Volunteer For 60 Years Honoured At 80

Mrs. Dore Felbel, for sixty years a volunteer worker at Montefiore Hospital, 100 Gun Hill Road, the Bronx, N. Y., and a trustee for more than twenty, observed her eightieth birthday with a round of hospital parties which included turkey dinners for 500 Montefiore patients and a special supper for 250 at the hospital's country sanatorium at Bedford Hills, N.Y.

Mrs. Felbel, who lives at 239 Central Park West, visited her usual ward patients in the morning, and then arrived at the Nurses Homes, where it was her turn to receive rather than give the birthday treat — cake and fruit punch. Doctors, nurses, orderlies, trustees, elevator operators, chauffeurs — every one who could leave his or her duties for a few moments — crowded in to extend birthday greetings to the woman they call "Mrs. Montefiore."

"If I live another year", she said, "I'll do it all over again. This is the best way to celebrate birthdays, giving to the hospital patients. I notified all my relatives and friends that I would not accept any birthday gifts, nor have any party at my house. They could give in my name to any charity."

Mrs. Felbel recalled that she had been taken by a friend to visit patients at Montefiore, when she was twenty, says the New York Herald Tribune. The hospital, then at

A. J. C. WARNS ON AMNESTY FOR NAZIS

Rabbi Irving Miller, president of the American Jewish Congress, telegraphed to Dean Acheson, U. S. Secretary of State, and John J. McCloy, High Commissioner for Germany, that the organization was deeply concerned over Western German agitation for release of Nazi war criminals now imprisoned. The telegrams warned that any amnesty for these criminals would encourage anti-democratic, anti-Semitic movements within Germany.

Rabbi Miller pointed out that the criminals had been sentenced after the guilt of each had been determined by Allied tribunals and added that "their pardon or release would inevitably raise suspicion that expediency had been permitted to set aside the demands of justice."

Failure To Get Young Skilled Influx From West Causes Concern In Israel

Several plans to persuade young skilled technicians and professional men to come to Israel from the Western world, and particularly from the United States, are being studied by Israeli organizations concerned over the failure of the new state to attract such immigrants.

There is a deep sense of disappointment among many Israelis that the founding of the state was not followed by a steady flow of Jews from North America, Britain and South Africa, says the New York Times. These are the groups among world Jewry who have the professional training, skills and educational background for which there is a critical need in Israel. Great hopes were held that the thousands of young Jews who flocked to fight for Israel from English-speaking countries would remain when the war was won.

For the most part they did not. Some Israelis became embittered toward them as a result, although their contribution to victory will always be remembered. To many others, including the Government, their departure and the fact that they have not been replaced has led to concern that perhaps the fault was Israel's.

There are two sides to this concern. First, it is essential for the state's development to import knowledge and skills as well as money and goods, and although the shortage of material factors for the building of the country is hardly surprising it was never expected that the shortage of trained minds would be so acute.

Secondly, Israel's leaders, both in and out of the Government, wonder what is lacking to provide the ideological pull for the Jews of the Western world who seemed willing enough to give funds and even to fight for the establishment of the state but apparently do not feel sufficiently attached to or involved in its future to settle there.

For the time being the first question is most important. It has led to a decision that special efforts must be made to entice young American and British experts to Israel, even if only for a year or two, to help fill the gap while the local youth is being trained.

It has now been recognized that, to begin with, living conditions

The Royal Regiment of Canada
"Ready, Aye, Ready". With this proud motto, the "Royals" were formed in 1862 as the 10th Battalion Volunteer Rifles of Canada. Renamed the 10th Battalion Royal Grenadiers in 1881, they won battle honours during the Northwest Rebellion, the South African War and in many of the great battles of World War I. The "Royals" received their present name in 1939 after amalgamation with the Toronto Regiment. In the Second World War the Royal Regiment of Canada served in the immortal raid on Dieppe and in the fighting following the Normandy invasion. Proud of their glorious past, the "Royals" are one of Canada's honoured regiments in which . . . TRADITION COUNTS.

FAILURE

normally available there simply fall too far beneath the accustomed standards for Americans. The main problem is housing. The huts and cramped quarters which immigrants from Eastern Europe have had to make do for lack of anything else, and which actually were an improvement over the previous standards of many Oriental immigrants, were an inadequate lure for Westerners who can just as easily stay home in comfort.

The Government now is trying to figure out ways to provide special accommodations for these people. For a time it was reluctant to accept this necessity since it would inevitably create a privileged group and probably arouse some resentment among the local population. But the circle of shortages and inefficiencies has somehow to be broken.

It has also been agreed that the need for these special recruits probably has not been presented to Westerners with sufficient challenge and vigor. For example, there is an impression that European immigration has overloaded Israel with doctors, professors and scientists, whereas farmers are needed most. This is untrue. Because of the war and its aftermath there is a gap of at least fifteen years in the supply of these professional men and women. There is no group available now to take the places of the very old.

The immense immigration from North Africa and Asia, which has filled the country with a large group of untrained and often primitive and illiterate persons, has also completely revised the country's earlier educational average and drastically changed the proportion of doctors, engineers, social workers and similar groups to the unskilled, says the New York Times.

Since the establishment of the state about 5,000 immigrants have come from North and South America, Australia, New Zealand and Britain. Among these are a considerable number of elderly persons. Immigration from Asia and Africa has totaled almost 250,000.

The idea of bringing persons to Israel for a few years should, it is now felt, be presented in the West as a contribution of equal importance to the financial requests being made of them. That is not to say that non-Jewish technicians would be any less welcome than Jews. But there is a conviction in Israel that the emotional ideological appeal that brought Jewish pioneers during the days before mass immigration should continue to bring them now.

The fact that it has not has led responsible Israelis to consider a change in the relationship between the people in Israel and the Jews abroad since the establishment of the state. This is a deeply complex question that is only beginning to be puzzled out.

MARRIAGES

MARKUS-ZARITSKY

The marriage of Kathleen, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Zaritsky, Mount Royal Boulevard, to Arthur Joseph Markus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Markus, Beaminster Place, took place on December 17, at Adath Israel Synagogue. Rabbi Charles Bender, Reverend M. Mendelcorn, and Cantor G. Berkovits officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a long-sleeved gown of silver flowered net, with fitted bodice, net yoke, with appliqued silver flowers and seed pearl beads and bouffant skirt which fell in a train. Her finger-tip-length veil of tulle illusion was fastened to a silver net Juliet cap and she carried a white prayer book, with white orchids. Miss Zelda Zaritsky, sister of the bride, was maid of honour. In a blue sheer nylon gown, with a shirred bodice, blue sash, and a full bouffant skirt, she had a blue satin off-the-face hat and carried a nosegay of mixed flowers. The bridesmaids were: Misses Carmen Zuckerman, cousin of the bride; Dorothy Freeman, Myra Kolber, and Sybil Ann Zaritsky, sister of the bride. They wore similar mauve nylon gowns, with matching off-the-face hats, and carried nosegays of mixed flowers. Percy Markus, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were: Albert Polonsky, cousin of the groom; Marvin Clamen, Morton Greenblatt, and Mortimer Zuckerman, cousin of the bride. William Aronson sang, accompanied by Miss Esther Krashinsky at the organ. Standards of white and pink chrysanthemums, with large candelabra, composed the decorations. Receiving, in the hall of the synagogue, Mrs. Zaritsky, mother of the bride, was in a floor-length dinner gown of mauvish-pink crepe, with long sleeves; also a small off-the-face hat and a corsage of mauve orchids. Mrs. Markus, mother of the groom, wearing a floor-length dinner gown of grey crepe, with a blue velvet hat, had matching blue accessories and a corsage of orchids. The bridal couple left for Miami Beach, Florida, to spend their honeymoon, the bride travelling in a brown wool suit, trimmed with velvet, with grey accessories, and a grey lamb coat, with a corsage of orchids. They will reside at 5781 Cote St. Luc Road. A. Dreben, of Los Angeles, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Garson, cousins of the groom, of Yarmouth, N. The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a long-sleeved gown of blush-white bridal satin, with old-fashioned lace, trimmed with gold, the lace yoke completed by a Bertha collar of satin and lace, and the very full skirt falling into a lace train. A pearl tiara held in place her finger-tip scalloped veil and she carried a mother-of-pearl Bible, adorned with two orchids with white streamers. Miss Beatrice Schwartz, as maid of honour, wore a gown of tulle with an apple-green taffeta under-skirt, an over-skirt of yellow tulle and another of light blue tulle. Her headdress was made of light blue feathers, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow pom-poms and roses. The bridesmaids were: Misses Judy Kepple, in lavender tulle and satin; Lilyan Joyce Rogers, cousin of the bride, in pink tulle; Sheila Laura Schwartz, in lavender tulle; and Selma Corobow, in blue tulle. The ushers were: Theodore Baker, Lawrence Glazer, Ben. Wald, and Louis Shaiden. Mendelssohn's "Wedding March", and "Song of Songs" were sung by the choir, accompanied by the organ. Pom-poms and snapdragons with ferns formed the decorations. Mrs. Cohen, mother of the bride, received in a gown of cocoa-brown lace over toning satin. Now- pay Yourself, too, on pay-day...with Personal Planning

The B of M featured Personal Planning on a test basis at the Canadian National Exhibition last autumn. In two weeks, 27,000 people asked for a copy of the B of M's booklet on Personal Planning. Here are some of the comments these people have volunteered:—

"A very workable budget. Your service is appreciated."

". . . wish we had started the plan long ago."

"Thank you so much for showing us the way to make a budget work. Have tried for a year with no success, but now I think we can really live and save with Personal Planning."

"The best yet."

". . . appreciate commonsense method of handling money."

"Swell idea."

Most people leave themselves out in the cold on pay-day. They pay the grocer and the baker . . . the milkman and the landlord. Everybody and his uncle dig into their pay envelopes but themselves.

Result — they're usually in a financial strait-jacket . . . and they worry. They worry about bills on hand. They worry about bills to come. They worry about unexpected bills. Money is always on their mind — souring their pleasure in living. And cobwebs gather on their plans for tomorrow.

What's the answer? There's only one . . .

. . . Personal Planning . . . WHY

Personal Planning is much more than just drawing up a budget. Budgets are often frustrating dog-collars. They usually tie you down and make life a very monotonous affair.

No, Personal Planning shows you how to live within your income and enjoy it. It's a complete financial program, cut from the pattern of your particular needs and problems.

Personal Planning won't help you make millions. But — given an honest chance — it will cure your 'day-after-pay-day blues.'

You'll learn how to make your budget work for you, instead of you working for it. And you'll also find that Personal Planning helps you realize your plans for tomorrow much sooner than you have dared to hope.

Almost anything a young child seizes goes directly to his mouth. For this reason parents should take care that all a child's toys are too large to swallow; marbles, beads, buttons and pins may cause a trying situation if junior slips them down his throat. Remember, your child will swallow foreign objects too. Don't give him the chance.

Too many "don'ts" and "must-n'ts" develop a feeling of inferiority and resentment in a child. Youngsters benefit by explanations as to why they should or should not do certain things.

BOYS, GIRLS WORK FOUR HOURS, STUDY FOUR

At the reception camp on the peak of Mount Carmel in Haifa, Israel, reporters saw children from half a dozen countries playing contentedly even if they could hardly understand one another's language. The lilt of Moroccan French mingled with Rumanian, Hungarian, Polish, Bulgarian, Arabic and the Hebrew of the Yemenites.

The eyes of the Yemenites and North African youngsters were wide-eyed with wonder and fright and they were cleaned, given medical examinations, issued clothing and shown to the spotlessly clean dormitories of the camp where they would spend from one to four weeks. It was the first time the Yemenites had seen pyjamas and they had to be told they were to be worn only for bed.

Special instructors were there to solve these and myriad other problems for the youngsters and to start them on courses in Hebrew and other subjects. Not far away north of Haifa the second stage of absorption is undertaken in a spacious camp named for Hadassah's founder, the late Henrietta Szold, of Baltimore, Maryland. Here the children study for four hours daily and work four hours preparing for places in the settlements that have undertaken to complete their training. In time they go on to open their own settlements or enter into the working life of the nation.

In one of the settlements there was a group of thirty-five boys and girls from India, their dusky skins and Indian-English accents providing a sharp contrast with a blond 16-year-old youth from Poland.

The Jewish Woman

"A woman of valour who can find? For her price is far above rubies." Proverbs 31:10.

No finer tribute to woman has ever been penned than that which is found in the thirty-first chapter of the Book of Proverbs. This tribute is an alphabetical acrostic based on the twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet in praise of the ideal woman. Some scholars describe this poem as the golden A-B-C of womanhood. The great John Ruskin considered it unsurpassed, yes, unmatched both as praise and as pattern of woman.

The Hebrew "Chayil" is most difficult to translate. Some translate "Chayil" as valiant; others as power and still others as virtuous. There are many words in the Hebrew Bible which are difficult to render into another tongue. I think if we divide the word "Chayil" in its letters, we shall thus be able to decipher the full connotation of the word. The letter "Chet" may symbolize the Hebrew word "Chesed" which means loving kindness. Surely, the Jewish woman throughout the ages has been known for her compassion, for her kind heart and for her unbounding sympathy with the poor and the needy. The typical Jewess of history was ever the kind-hearted lady. She might not have known anything about so-called psychology or psychiatry, but she practiced loving kindness and her heart overflowed with compassion.

The second characteristic of the ideal Jewish woman is symbolized by the letter "yod", which stands for Yirah-religion. The Jewess has always been a godly woman. She walked in the ways of goodness. Hers was a devout life and a superbly moral life. In all the convents of medieval Europe, no woman was found more saintly than the Jewish woman who presided as priestess over the altar of her home sanctuary. She taught her children religion by the power of her example.

There are those who might say that as far as synagogue life is concerned, the Jewish woman was disfranchised. But the truth of the matter is just this, that she was exempted from certain ritual duties that fell upon men. If in the old liturgy there was the prayer, supposedly derogatory to woman, it was not meant thus at all. Woman as woman was not expected by the authorities of the synagogue to fulfill all the obligations which were incumbent upon men. Man, in eagerness for observing the mitzvahs, gave thanks in the blessing, that because he is a man, he has the opportunity to observe and fulfill all the religious obligations.

This does not mean that woman's position was less important in Jewish life. Indeed, hers was a high office to strengthen Judaism through the sanctuary of the home, and the synagogue is only as strong as is Jewish home life. The Jewish home is our first line of defence in maintaining the great religious heritage, our precious Judaism.

The third Hebrew letter in the word "Chayil" is that of "lamed" which is symbolic of the Hebrew word "lekach", instruction. Mother instructed her children in the ways of goodness and in the ways of the beauty of Judaism. Jewish life was beautiful because it was rooted in goodness. Indeed, the Jewess was always admired not because of her physical beauty. It was her spiritual qualities, the purity of her mind; the modesty of her conduct; her devotion to the eternal verities of life, namely the spiritual.

The modern Jewess has well matched the "Eshes Chayil" of yesterday in the pursuit of the spiritual and the good. Behold, how splendidly Jewish womanhood throughout the world brought into existence the great organizations of Hadassah, the Council of Jewish Women, and the Federations of Temple Sisterhoods. These came into being to make real the qualities of loving kindness, religion, and instruction, all embodied in the phrase of "Eshes Chayil".

Of course, there are those women in Jewish communities who pursue the frivolous and the fads and who eat the "bread of idleness", whose souls are not sensitive to the spiritual. These have grown lax and know not the disciplines of religious living and striving. They know not the joy of serving great causes in the most epochal period of Jewish history. They waste their energies by day and by night over the petty and the little. But, by and large, Jewish woman of today has matched her sister of yesterday in good works.

The modern Jewess must again recognize that her first duty is to her home sanctuary. There she is to create that spiritual atmosphere that will make the home a fortress and a sanctuary of peace despite the tensions and frustrations of modern life. Upon the Jewish woman of today rests a challenge of breaking down indifference on the part of men to religion and to the spiritual. Men engaged in the world of commerce and business so become absorbed in materialism that their lives are denuded of soul striving. Hence what a great mission rests upon woman to bring the atmosphere of spirituality and the inspiration for the spiritual through the beauties of home life!

It is woman who can inspire man to indulge in worship both in synagogue and at home. Of course, she must sacrifice if she is to rise to her noble mission so far as some of the meaningless pastimes so frequently indulged in by women of today are concerned. Woman of today has a great job in building the home beautiful for her husband and her children, that home which can be the gateway to the synagogue and to the larger Temple of society, dedicated to service of God and humanity.
